SPORT NOTES

BASEBALL PICKUPS

Now that the World Series has been sliced and distributed among the Athletics and Cardinals, very little baseball will be seen on the sporting pages of the papers for some time, unless some team see fit to deal with one another suddenly, when one glances over the list of players and the money they received for playing for the championship of the world, it is very noticeable that some of the regulars were given more than others. Connie Mack, Rubeen, Grover, Miller and Simmons were presented with $60,000, or a percent more than the remaining regulars received. It seems unnecessary to figure shares of the money to such a fine figure, but of course the spoils must be given as evenly as possible. Wonder when they would do it after all the money was given out they found one more cent remained?

Brooklyn should have the most powerful outfit in the game next year. The 1935 season seems to have revealed one of the greatest first basemen in recent years—Bill Voisard of the Giants. For several seasons, with O'Neil in left, Fred Ketch in center and Herman in right, Manager Johnson has a trio that cannot be equaled in other leagues or the minors. Voisard, at first averages of the season just past, reveal that Herman had a second in the league with a mark of 225. O'Neil placed fourth with 182 and Fredrick was not very far down the list with 211. Even the hard hitting outfield of the Chicago Cubs cannot produce the line batting records of the three Brooklyn players. O'Neil and Herman are both in a class by themselves as far as hitting is concerned, but are not the best fielders in the world. However they are very good at chasing fly balls and they should be good enough with Fredrick in center to help them out. He is one of the best center fielders in the game and also a threat to the ball, watch out for these two in 1936.

A Good place to buy your NEW Ford

We emphasize service equally with sales. It has always been our belief that does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service.

For that reason we have installed a system of free inspection service at 500 miles, 1000 miles, and 1500 miles by specially trained mechanics. Everything is free except the cost of new oil.

The Brewing Industry is an important factor in the industrial life of this Province.

It is hardly necessary to emphasize the millions of dollars which have been invested throughout Alberta in this Industry.

Hundreds of Albertans enjoy steady employment throughout the year in the brewing, storing, transporting, of the products of the five great modern breweries of Alberta.

Alberta Brewery Products are served by the bottle or glass at hotels. Sold by the barrel or case from our ware houses.

Where beer by the glass is available, most men are satisfied to forego the full bottle of more potent liquor.

Sole Agents for the Alberta Brewing Industry.

HEARD ON THE STREET

The heavens were rocked with a terrific crash of thunder "What would that be?" cried Mr. Mack, almost forgot to snarl in my letter."

Am't let me say: "There is no hard that it's had anything to do with. I've given up on that."

"I don't see who jones about our race being so close are continually being published," remarked Mr. Gregor.

"We are not close—just thirty!" "I think it's a shame," agreed Mr. Friedman with whom he was talking.

The proceeded in silence until they came to Bob Hamby's home factory.

champion. It was on his way to the away on the automobile highway of the Hamilton American line. The minister, who had a reputation for the efficacy of his suggestions on previous occasions, seemed the dignified gravity and after a silence, during which he carefully scanned the horizon, replied: "Well, but all I did was all the win's mair off the west!"

"Congratulations to my dear, cooed his sweetheart's mother after he had been accepted. "So you are to be my son-in-law?"

"Good gracious!" exclaimed Edwin, "I hadn't thought of that."

"Is your husband a good provider, Ednah?"

"Yesum. He's a good provider, all right, but I've always shied at niggard's grins get caught a-ly."

Girl: "We want to buy a ticket. D. A. Perry: "But there two of you."

Girl: "Well, ain't we half sisters Add that up."

An editor in the Southern part of the province decided to take the occasion of a little vacation this year, and on his return he will probably travel down a back alley. In a recent write up of the stylish wedding of a young couple in his town he said among other things that "the bride wore a large hat and a long train."

"I never see any picture of angels with whippers, do little girl to heaven" asked a little girl in her teacher in the Sunday school class here. "Yes," the teacher replied, "but you see they get there by a close shave."

Sambo, a southern dandy, married Liza. In about two weeks he came to the reverend gentleman who had tied the knot, looking as if he had lost his last friend in the world.

"What's the matter, Sambo, are you not happy?" the preacher inquired.

"No, sah, pashon. Ah wants a divorce."

"I'm sorry to hear that, Sambo, but you must remember that you took Liza for better or worse."

"Ah knows dat pashon but she's worse dan ah looks her for."

The prison chaplain inquired of the new convert who had brought about his downfall.

"Well, you see, sir," began the man. "I married a new woman."

The chaplain was sympathetic. The new woman, he declared, "in the course of the age. Thinking only of pleasure, she neglects her husband and drives her husband into desperate courses. And tried to ruin me she drive you."

"Well, you see, sir," said the man. "I married a new woman, and the old one gave me in charge for bigamy."

Miss Gladys Coefer has left for Libertyville, Ill. where she will visit with relatives and friends.

A magnificent shower of snow and interest was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rae in honor of Miss Jeannette McIntyre, about 35 of her friends were present, while many and varied, were the gifts presented to Jeannette.

Otto Houwerds and George Kauts are in the Peace River country exploring.

"Come in and have a cigar," invited the Irishman.

"They stopped me," cried Mr. Mack, "almost forgot to snarl in my letter."

"By Jove," said he. "I left my money at home."

"Well, the day is young," continued McGregory. "I don't mind walking back with you to get it."

Mrs. Smith: "My husband talks in his sleep. Doesn't you?"

Mrs. Brown: "No, and its so exasperating. He only snorts."

"In time of trial," inquired the speaker what brings us the great comfort?"

"An acquittal," interrupted a man at the back of the hall.

The easterly wind had dried the land, and the crops were suffering from the drought, so the agricultural societies of the district met with the minister with a request to "put up a word or two for rain."

The minister, who had a reputation for the efficacy of his suggestions on previous occasions, seemed the dignified gravity and after a silence, during which he carefully scanned the horizon, replied: "Well, but all I did was all the win's mair off the west!"
